

TAMBORINE MOUNTAIN GALLERY WALK PRECINCT

Project Update June 2025

Completed 2022: Artist's impression of Tamboorine Mountain Gallery

Welcome to the June 2025 edition of the Tamboorine Mountain Gallery Walk Precinct car park construction update.

Last month, we launched our first issue, providing insights into the initiative's aims, highlights from stage one, infrastructure improvements, and a chance to view the latest design. Moving forward, these monthly updates keep our community informed about the status of construction works and what to expect as we progress.

Council is pleased to report that the development of the Gallery Walk Car Park and amenities upgrade is advancing well. This month, we are focusing on earthworks and the completion of a detention basin and further formation works, depending on weather and site conditions.

Major projects such as the Tamboorine Mountain Gallery Walk construction are essential for enhancing our region's economy, environment, and the services and facilities available to residents, businesses, and visitors. This project is jointly funded by the Queensland Government's South East Queensland Community Stimulus Program and Scenic Rim Regional Council.

LATEST UPDATE

- Earthworks: Excavation is under way at the western end of the car park, while infill operations are taking place on the eastern side.
- Detention Basin: With the detention basin now formed, the exterior of the basin will be turfed, enhancing both its appearance and functionality. The installation of the stormwater outlet line within the basin is progressing well and is on track for timely completion.

It is anticipated that these works will take approximately two weeks to complete, subject to weather and site conditions.

WHAT IS A DETENTION BASIN?

Detention basins are critical in managing stormwater runoff, reducing flooding risks within catchments. By temporarily storing excess water, they help to slow the flow into local waterways, minimising erosion and protecting our infrastructure and ecosystems.
